CROSSOVER VOTING OPTIONS FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY ELECTION

Dear Voter:

You have indicated "No Party Preference" on your voter registration. As a Permanent Vote by Mail voter, you are automatically mailed an official ballot before every election in which you are eligible to vote.

Under California Law, qualified political parties may allow registered voters with "No Party Preference" to "crossover" and vote in their parties. For the June 7, 2016 Presidential Primary Election, the American Independent, Democratic and Libertarian parties have allowed "crossover" voting. Please note that if you choose to request a "crossover" ballot, it will not change your party preference.

WHAT TO DO NEXT:

1. If you do not wish to request a "crossover" ballot, no action is required. A "Nonpartisan" ballot will be mailed to you automatically.
2. To request a "crossover" ballot, complete the request form on the back. Write in your choice of party ballot (American Independent, Democratic or Libertarian) in the space provided. Sign and return the request by mail by Friday, March 18, 2016.
3. If you wish to vote with a ballot of a party not listed for crossover voting, you must first change your party affiliation status. You must complete and submit a new voter registration application indicating a party preference by Monday, May 23, 2016. To check your status, visit www.lavote.net.

Your Sample Ballot and Vote By Mail guide will contain additional information about "crossover" voting and instructions for completing your Vote By Mail ballot. If you have any questions, please contact our Vote By Mail Unit at (562) 466-1323. Additional voting information and resources are also available online at www.lavote.net.

EXHIBIT 14

Top Two Candidates Open Primary Act and Voter-Nominated Offices

The Top Two Candidates Open Primary Act, which took effect January 1, 2011, requires that all candidates for a voter-nominated office be listed on the same ballot. Previously known as partisan offices, voter-nominated offices are state legislative offices, U.S. congressional offices, and state constitutional offices. Only the two candidates receiving the most votes—regardless of party preference—move on to the general election regardless of vote totals.

Write-in candidates for voter-nominated offices can only run in the primary election. However, a write-in candidate can only move on to the general election if the candidate is one of the top two vote-getters in the primary election.

Additionally, there is no independent nomination process for a general election. California's new open primary system does not apply to candidates running for U.S. President, county central committee, or local offices.

Party-Nominated/Partisan Offices

Under the California Constitution, political parties may formally nominate candidates for party-nominated/partisan offices at the primary election. A candidate so nominated will then represent that party as its official candidate for the office in question at the ensuing general election and the ballot will reflect an official designation to that effect. The top votegetter for each party at the primary election is entitled to participate in the general election. Parties also elect officers of official party committees at a partisan primary.

No voter may vote in the primary election of any political party other than the party he or she has disclosed a preference for upon registering to vote. However, a political party may authorize a person who has declined to disclose a party preference to vote in that party's primary election.

Voter-Nominated Offices

Under the California constitution, political parties are not entitled to formally nominate candidates for voter-nominated offices at the primary election. A candidate nominated for a voter-nominated office at the primary election is the nominee of the people and not the official nominee of any party at the following general election. A candidate for nomination or election to a voter-nominated office shall have his or her party preference, or lack of party preference, reflected on the primary and general election ballot, but the party preference designation is selected solely by the candidate and is shown for the information of the voters only. It does not constitute or imply an endorsement of the candidate by the party designated, or affiliation between the party and candidate, and no candidate nominated by the qualified voters for any voter-nominated office shall be deemed to be the officially nominated candidate of any political party. The parties may list the candidates for voter-nominated offices who have received the official endorsement of the party in the sample ballot.

All voters may vote for any candidate for a voter-nominated office, provided they meet the other qualifications required to vote for that office. The top two votegetters at the primary election advance to the general election for the voter-nominated office, even if both candidates have specified the same party preference designation. No party is entitled to have a candidate with its party preference designation participate in the general election unless such candidate is one of the two highest votegetters at the primary election.

Nonpartisan Offices

Under the California Constitution, political parties are not entitled to nominate candidates for nonpartisan offices at the primary election, and a candidate nominated for a nonpartisan office at the primary election is not the official nominee of any party for the office in question at the ensuing general election. A candidate for nomination or election to a nonpartisan office may not designate his or her party preference, or lack of party preference, on the primary and general election ballot. The top two votegetters at the primary election advance to the general election for the nonpartisan office.
